“ *Morgan, I just learned of Randy's death. I am so sorry that you never got to meet him. I am sure he would be proud of the smart, beautiful, young lady that you have turned out to be. Sometimes things are better left unsaid. I pray that you will have closure in your life and you need to thank god that you have the support from your family that you do.##imported-begin##Delina Parker##imported-

I guess I will always remember Randy playing football or basketball at the house. He will forever be a part of those wonderful times.

“ Glen and family,
I know this is difficult for you to deal with - realizing it takes you back to a similar situation years ago and reopens that wound, as well. I have learned over the years that our grief over physical death never really goes away, it merely resolves to the point that we can bear it to go on from day to day. As God gave the manna for one day at a time, so He provides our sustenance. That's more than we even know to ask for - He being the great Jehovah-Jireh (Provider), He knows us as His own creation to give us what we must have to carry our burdens. As our Lord promises, His grace is sufficient for us. I love you all very much. I hope to see you tomorrow or Tuesday.##imported-begin##Cindy Norrid Cox and girls##imported-end##

“ Kane,
I am sorry to hear about you losing your dad. It is hard to let go of those we love - especially when one is taken from us without us having a choice... I pray that you can find peace through the Jesus that you have known about since you were a young boy...He is always there to hold you and comfort you in times of grief, confusion, and loneliness. I love you, always have, even from the days that you used to come to my house and ask what's for supper?, before you went home and asked your mom the same. Then you ate with whoever had what you liked the best!!! :o) I am around if you ever need backup! The girls and I will be praying for you...##imported-begin##Cindy (Norrid) Cox##imported-end##
